HISTORY OF THE ATLANTA HAWKS

One of the best kept secrets in sports history was announced on May 3, 1968, when it was revealed that one of the National Basketball Association's traditionally great teams, the St. Louis Hawks, was moving to Atlanta.

The move took the sports world by complete surprise as there had been no inkling of the transfer which was finalized a few days later at the NBA's annual meeting.

Bringing the team to the South were two of Atlanta's and Georgia's most respected gentlemen, Former Governor Carl E. Sanders and businessman Thomas G. Cousins. They acquired the club from Ben Kerner, who had built the Hawks into a team with a tradition of winning.

Atlanta had long been a city with an NBA future and only the lack of an adequate building had held the city back. Sanders and Cousins solved this problem by gaining permission to play in Alexander Memorial Coliseum in Atlanta which seats nearly 7,000.

Of course, in the future for the city and for the Hawks is a new coliseum which will not only give the Hawks a home, but provide the area with a building of unlimited usefulness.

Atlanta and the Southeast took the Hawks to their hearts in the first year. Coach Richie Guerin has been quoted often as saying, "Our fans in Atlanta and the south were the most enthusiastic I've ever seen. They were with us all the way."

The Hawks responded to this enthusiasm with a second place finish in the Western Division, winning 48 and losing 34, despite crippling injuries to the guard corps.

The move of the Hawks was the NBA's first venture into the South and makes the league a true national sport with the 14 teams stretching from border to border—Northwest to Seattle, Southwest to Phoenix, Northeast to New York and Southeast to Atlanta.

Atlanta and the Southeast is noted as a true hot-bed of sports lovers who will go all out for a winner and if the past holds true, they have such a team in the Hawks.

But that history was not always so. The club had floundered along in Milwaukee for many years with only minimal success until in 1955 the move was made to St. Louis.

Only Bob Pettit, the league's Rookie of the Year the previous season, and All-America Frank Selvy of Furman were well known "names," but the supporting cast included some well-traveled but capable pros and the Hawks began to build what was to become the Western Division's most powerful club.

The club tied for second with Minneapolis their initial season in St. Louis, then upset the Lakers in the semi-final playoffs before bowing in the finals to Fort Wayne.

In 1956-57, the Hawks won their first of five straight Western Division titles. They finished in a three-way tie with Minneapolis and Fort Wayne, but downed first Fort Wayne, then the Lakers to earn the title.

After sweeping to the playoff title, they battled Eastern champion Boston down to the wire in a best of seven series, losing the finale of the seven-game set in Boston 125-123, in a double overtime contest that has been tabbed the most exciting game in the history of the NBA.

The following campaign saw the Hawks soar to the World Championship defeating the Celtics four games to two. In the finale, Bob Pettit played the greatest game of his pro career, scoring 19 of the Hawks' last 21 points—a total of 50 for the contest—to spark the Hawks to the title.

The Hawks made it three crowns in a row in 1958-1959 winning the Western title by 16 games. But in the divisional playoffs, play-maker deluxe Slater Martin was sidelined by an injury and the Hawks lost to the Lakers four to two, losing the last two by margins of one and two points. The Hawks' two triumphs were by 30 and 34 point margins.

In 1959-60, the high-flying Hawks won their fourth straight title—by 15 games—and won the divisional playoff crown before bowing to the powerful Celtics in a seven-game championship series.

Then in 1960-61, the Hawks won Western Division title number five in a row, taking the crown by a 15 game margin. But history repeated itself, and the club lost again to the Celtics for the world championship, this time four games to two.

Then came one of the most astounding tumbles in the history of pro sports. From Western Division titleholders the season before, the Hawks fell to a 29-51 mark and fourth place in the West. It marked the first time that the club had failed to make the playoffs during their six years in St. Louis.

But the future was not that bleak. There were many circumstances behind the fall. Vet guard John McCarthy missed the last 65 games with a leg injury. Clyde Lovellette, one-time member of basketball's highest scoring front-line (Pettit and Cliff Hagan were his mates), missed 40 games and his backup man vet Larry Foust sat out 23 games. And to make matters worse, Lennie Wilkens, a brilliant guard his rookie year the previous season, was unable to get out of service requirements and could play only in 20 games.

A complete changeover was obviously to come and it began when Harry Gallatin, one-time Iron Man with the Knicks, was hired away from Southern Illinois where he had completed a highly successful four-year coaching career. He became the Hawk coach and the club began to rebuild. Actually, that job had already begun. Mike Farmer, a vet frontliner, was purchased from Cincinnati and rookie Gene Tormohlen (now the club's Assistant Coach) was acquired from Syracuse. Each was to play an important role in the resurgence of the Hawks.

Only three players were still around when the 1962-63 season opened—Pettit, Hagan and Wilkens. The eight new Hawks came via the college draft, trades and outright purchases. And the blending resulted in a revitalized showing. From the 29-51 mark of the previous season, the Hawks jumped off to a 48-32 record good for second place behind the Los Angeles Lakers.

The new-look Hawks flirted with first place throughout the season, hit a low spot in January, then finished with a rush. They downed Detroit three games to one in the semi-final playoffs before falling to the Lakers four victories to three. The Hawks' comeback earned Gallatin Coach of the Year honors in the NBA.

The 1963-64 season saw the Hawk quintet finish second again, battling San Francisco right down to the final day of the season. A 21-game mid-season stint in which Zelmo Beaty, the club's only reliable center, was out of action dampened the title hopes.

The Hawks defeated the Lakers in the semi-finals, then fought the Warriors to the final game of the seven-game Western finals before losing in the Gate City.

There were few new faces that year, but one newcomer, Richie Guerin, proved to be one of the best moves the Hawks ever made. The vet guard was acquired from New York during the first week of the season. In new surroundings, Guerin put together a brilliant season breaking the team scoring mark for guards and exhibiting skills that few thought him capable of.

Injuries seem to hit in clusters and 1964-1965 was the "Year of the Injury" as the Hawks were hit with a rash of crippling ailments that saw their stars miss a good part of the final half of the season. The great Bob Pettit hit the 20,000 point mark to become the first player in pro basketball history to top that lofty diadem, but the team captain missed 30 games with various injuries to set the pace for the season.

Zelmo Beaty was the only player to appear in all 80 games as eight players missed 18 or more contests.

The Hawks were in and out of first place most of the year. They faded briefly in December, then finished with a flurry winning 13 of the last 16 games although only six players were hale and hearty.

Guerin was appointed player-coach of the Hawks on Dec. 27 of that season replacing Gallatin, who, in turn, took over the same spot with the Knicks, the team with which he broke into the NBA. Instituting a fast break offense that utilized the talents of the club more effectively, Guerin had a 26-19 won-loss mark for the balance of the campaign.

The Hawks finished four games back of the Lakers in the West despite their gallant finish. They fell in the semi-finals to Baltimore as the injury hex struck again with Pettit playing the final play-off on virtually one leg.

An era in Hawk history and in NBA annals ended at the conclusion of the season when Pettit retired. He finished his 11-year career with 20,880 points and a 26.4 per game mark. The Hawk record book still reads like a memorial to this great star. But with the conclusion of one era, another must begin. And that was what the Hawks did.

They were called the Cinderella team in 1965-1966 as they stormed into the playoffs by one game despite another siege of injuries. With three players sidelined and four others playing with injuries, the Hawks won three straight games from Baltimore in the opening round of the Western playoffs. They then extended the Lakers to seven games before bowing in a thrilling finale.

In 1966-67, that old hex continued to haunt the club. They were leading the West with a 9-5 mark when Beaty suffered a knee injury that was to bench him for 33 games. However, with the reliable Tormohlen standing in for Zelmo, the Hawks managed to put on a late spurt to take second place just five games off the San Francisco pace. The Hawks took the semi-final playoffs from Chicago before the first-place Warriors ended the Hawk hopes four games to two.

But a new group of Hawks was beginning to take shape. Rookie Lou Hudson led the club in scoring and was runnerup as the NBA's Rookie of the Year. Joe Caldwell was acquired in a trade and showed signs of developing into one of the league's most exciting players. Bill Bridges, Pettit's backup man, stepped into a regular spot and finished fifth in the league in rebounding and averaged 17.4 points a game.

However, the Hawks and the NBA lost one of its great ones when Guerin stepped down as an active player after 11 brilliant seasons. But in his first season as a bench coach, he was to reach the pinnacle of the coaching ranks.

With Guerin spending his full time as a strategist, the Hawks jumped off to a 16-1 start at the gun and roared to their sixth Western Division title in 12 years. En route to that crown, the Hawks set a division mark for victories with a 56-26 record.

Under Guerin's guidance Beaty, Wilkens, Caldwell and Paul Silas each had his finest pro season. But records mean nothing in the playoffs and the Hawks bowed to San Francisco four games to two.

Virtually that same cast came back last season. Guerin tabbed Tormohlen as his Assistant Coach and in the new surroundings, the Hawks continued their legacy of winning basketball.

Through the years, the Hawks have had their share of successes and their share of stars, Pettit, Hagan, Lovellette, and the stars of the past have given way to Bridges, Hudson, Walt Hazzard, Gary Gregor and the standouts of the present Hawks.

THOMAS G. COUSINS

Co-Owner and Treasurer

Former Governor Carl E. Sanders and Thomas G. Cousins brought to Atlanta and the Southeast its third major league sport when they made the St. Louis Hawks the Atlanta Hawks with their purchase in May of 1968.

Just 10 years ago, the 37-year-old Cousins formed Cousins Properties Incorporated with $3,000 capitalization and has directed its growth since that time. The firm's activities have focused on real estate development in practically every sector of the industry—sudivisions and home building; apartments and townhouses; commercial developments, industrial parks, shopping centers, office buildings and office parks; an insurance company; a Small Business investment Corporation subsidiary (First American Investment Corporation), specializing in real estate ventures; a mortgage banking subsidiary (Investment Mortgage Company); and a subsidiary specializing in shopping centers (Retail Planning Corporation). Its assets are now listed in excess of $2.5 million with operations spanning the eastern United States.

In addition to his responsibilities as President and Chairman of the Board of Cousins Properties, he is a member of the Advisory Board of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, the Executive Committee of Central Atlanta Progress, Inc., the Board of Trustees of the Atlanta Arts Alliance, Inc., and the Board of Trustees of The Rockefeller University. He has also served as Chairman of the Board of Deacons of Atlanta's North Avenue Presbyterian Church and various other civic, business and charitable activities.

Cousins has been honored by the University of Georgia School of Business as an outstanding graduate. He was selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men in Georgia in 1963 by the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cousins' venture into athletics is no accident. He was an all-round athlete throughout high school in Decatur, Georgia, and in prep school at Darlington in Rome, Georgia. While attending the University of Georgia, he was a letterman in swimming and held some school records. He is rated one of the finest club golfers in Georgia with his score usually approaching or bettering par.

He and his wife, the former Ann Draughon, are the parents of three children—Jane Caroline (12), Lillian (9) and Thomas, Jr. (6).

CARL SANDERS

Vice President and Co-Owner

Former Georgia Governor Carl E. Sanders first became involved in athletic competition when, as a boy, he played tin-can hockey with a sassafras stick on Heath Street in Augusta, his hometown.

He has remained involved. Sanders and Thomas G. Cousins are co-owners of the Atlanta Hawks. Sanders serves as the Hawks' vice president.

Sanders began playing football on the Augusta YMCA midget team. As a freshman at Richmond Academy, he made the first-string B varsity. In 1941-42, his senior year at the public high school, he was voted the team's most valuable player. He also was named to the all-state football team.

A football scholarship to the University of Georgia enabled him to attend college. In 1942, before entering the Army Air Force at age 17, he played on an undefeated freshman football team and earned varsity basketball and baseball letters.

During World War II he was a pilot of bomber and fighter planes. He returned to the University in 1945 to play on the Georgia Bulldog team led by Charley Trippi. Sanders played quarterback behind Johnny Rauch and participated in the 1946 Oil Bowl.

Sanders entered law school and was married to Betty Bird Foy of Statesboro, an art major at the university. They now have two children: Betty Foy, 17, and Carl, Jr., 16.

After leaving the University in 1947, Sanders formed his own law firm. He is now a senior partner in the firm of Sanders, Hester, Holley, Ashmore and Boozer, with offices in Atlanta and Augusta.

Sanders was elected to the Georgia General Assembly in 1954. He served in the Georgia House and Senate for eight years.

At the age of 37, Sanders was elected governor in 1962. He won by 162,000 votes in a five-candidate race, the largest margin of victory in the state's history.

During the young governor's administration, more than a billion dollars were invested in education for Georgia school children, mental health treatment facilities and staffs were expanded, the penal system was reformed, the highway board was reorganized, and programs for the ill and needy made significant gains. Sanders launched a program of economy and efficiency in state government. As a result, when he left office, the state had a record surplus of $140 million.

Sanders, however, never forgot the importance of athletics. During his administration, the University of Georgia returned as a national football power. Atlanta Stadium was built and Georgia became a big league state in baseball, football, soccer, and basketball.

The former governor continues to participate in athletic events and frequently speaks at sports functions in the state. In 1968, he was inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame.

Sanders, now only 44 years old, has made it plain that he has no intention of giving up his involvement in athletics or politics. The law prohibited him from running in 1966 to succeed himself as governor. He can seek the office again in 1969, and probably will.

JAMES A. CALKIN

President, Atlanta Hawks

Jim Calkin, President of the Atlanta Hawks, brings an immensely successful career in the business world into professional sports.

For the past five years, Calkin was the Senior Vice-President and Director of Agencies of the Coastal States Life Insurance Company of Atlanta. He had been associated with that organization for seven years.

Prior to that he was affiliated with the Ford Motor Company.

A graduate of the University of Tennessee where he majored in marketing, Calkin also attended the University of Connecticut.

Basketball and baseball were his main sports endeavors in high school and he had a basketball scholarship to Tusculum (Tenn.) College tendered him prior to his entering the Air Force where he served four years.

He has been crusade director of the Regional Funds and has served in several capacities for the American Cancer Society.

He has been Chairman of the Board of Stewards of Briarcliff Methodist Church for the past two years.

Mr. Calkin is married and the father of four children.

LEWIS WOODRUFF

Executive Vice President

Long a well-known member of the Southeastern sports scene as an Assistant Football Coach at Georgia Tech, Lewis Woodruff became Executive Vice President of The Atlanta Hawks in May of 1968.

He had ended a 21-year collegiate coaching career after the 1967 football season when he joined Hawk co-owner Thomas Cousins in private business. After the Hawks were obtained, the club's Board of Directors tabbed the likeable Woodruff as co-ordinator of the front office.

Woodruff was respected as one of the better football minds in college ranks. He was able to set up an imaginative offense as well as plan a tough defense. During his career, he was both an offensive and defensive backfield chief and was successful in each spot.

While an assistant to the renowned Bobby Dodd, Woodruff and Tech went to a post-season bowl 12 years, with the Yellow Jackets winning eight. Tech's record during his tenure was 148-58-8.

A great all-around athlete at the University of Georgia, Woodruff was an ultra-successful high school coach before entering the collegiate field. One of his high school performers was a slender end named Tom Cousins, now President and Co-Owner of the Hawks.

He is married to the former Ellen Carroll of Atlanta and they are the parents of two sons, Lewis, Jr. (13) and Tom (11).

MARTY BLAKE

General Manager

The dean of National Basketball Association General Managers, Marty Blake has a long and varied background in professional sports administration.

He joined the Hawks in 1954 when the club was located in Milwaukee serving as Publicity Director and assistant to the then owner of the team, Ben Kerner. He became Business Manager when the club moved to St. Louis a year later and was named General Manager ten years ago.

While still a high school student in Pennsylvania, he headed a six-county amateur boxing program. At 19, he was issued a promoter's license making him the youngest licensed boxing promoter in the world at that time. He eventually moved into the management end, handling several boxers who attained national rankings.

He was a member of the Cleveland Indians' promotional staff from 1946 to 1951 working with Bill Veeck, one of sports' all-time promotional minds. He also worked for the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers in baseball.

He is married to the former Marcia Whitworth, a native of Atlanta, and they are the parents of two sons—Buffy (5½) and Ryan (3½).

TOM McCOLLISTER

Director of Public Relations and Publicity

Tom joined the Hawks this year after working seven years with The Atlanta Journal sports department, four as assistant sports editor.

His background includes two years with The Birmingham News, two years with The Jacksonville, Fla., Journal and two years with The Dothan, Ala., Eagle. He also served as assistant public information director at Mississippi State College for a year and a half.

A graduate of the University of Alabama, Tom is a native of Dothan, Ala., where he played basketball and baseball and served as manager of the football team.

He is married to the former Gwyn Allbritten of Birmingham, and they have three children, Johnny, 10; Ken, 7; and Kristi, 2.

SKIP CARAY

Director of Broadcasting and Play-by-Play Announcer

Skip Caray will serve The Atlanta Hawks in a dual capacity this season acting as the club's Director of Broadcasting and as play-by-play announcer for the Radio and Television Network.

The 11-year veteran of broadcasting joined the Hawks when they moved from St. Louis serving as "The Voice of the Hawks" on radio. He will work both Radio and TV this year, as well as coordinating the team's vast networks which should be the most expansive in the National Basketball Association.

His background includes three years with St. Louis U. Basketball, six years with Missouri U. Football, five years with the Missouri High School Basketball Tournament Network and one year with the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas Baseball League. Caray was Assistant Sports Director of KMOX Radio in St. Louis for four years.

The son of popular sports broadcaster Harry Caray (Voice of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals), Skip was an honor graduate in the Radio-Television News Sequence in the Journalism School at Missouri University in 1961.

He is married to the former Lila Osterkamp. They now live in Atlanta with their two children—Harry III (Chip), 4½ years old and Cynthia, 3 years old.

JOHN CULVER

Director of Communications

John joins the Hawks team after serving as executive secretary of the Georgia Association of Broadcasters and professor of journalism at Georgia State College. His duties include assisting Skip Caray in the overall radio-television operations with specific duties in coordinating sponsors and stations in the Hawks radio-tv network.

His background in the radio-television field includes serving as assistant to the general manager of WAII-TV (now WQXI-TV), and for eight years he was vice president and general manager of WGKA radio in Atlanta.

A native of Dothan, Ala., Culver is married to the former Bette Doolittle of Wheaton, Ill., and they have four children, Peter, 22; Kevin, 17; David, 15; and Meredith, 13.

ATLANTA HAWKS FRONT OFFICE PERSONNEL

IRV GACK, BUSINESS MANAGER—Gack moved with the club from St. Louis and serves in the same capacity he has filled for the past 12 years. He handles the business operation of the club with emphasis on the sales department. Irv is known as one of the Hawks' most enthusiastic fans, an enthusiasm that earned him the dubious honor of being one of the few front office people in the NBA to be slapped with a technical foul. A native of New York City, he is married to the former Blanche Schenker and they have three children, Alan, 19; Michelle, 16; and Bruce, 13.

JAMES PEPPER, DIRECTOR OF SALES—A behind-the-scenes participant in Southeastern sports in recent years, Pepper joined the Hawks upon transfer of the club from St. Louis. He has been associated with sports at many levels. Jim is a certified football and basketball official and is active in the promotion of track and field activities in the state. A graduate of the University of Georgia, he is married to the former Shelley Steinman of Atlanta.

SUSAN HOCK, ADVERTISING SALES AND PROMOTION—A real go-getter in the Hawks front office, Susan is responsible for all Hawks advertising in the game program. During the season, she spends much time assisting in the publicity and promotion of the Hawks. A native of Augusta, Ga., Miss Hock is a graduate of Stratford College in Danville, Va.

JOE O'TOOLE, TRAINER—This will be O'Toole's first year as trainer of the Hawks. He came to Atlanta from the University of Wisconsin where he was assistant trainer. Joe has a varied background in the field of physical therapy. He received his Bachelor's Degree from Cortland State, gained a physical therapist certificate from the Mayo Clinic and received his Master's from Indiana University. A native of Waverly, N. Y., Joe is married to the former Rosemary Little and they have three children, Andrew, 4; Molly, 2; and Maura, 1.

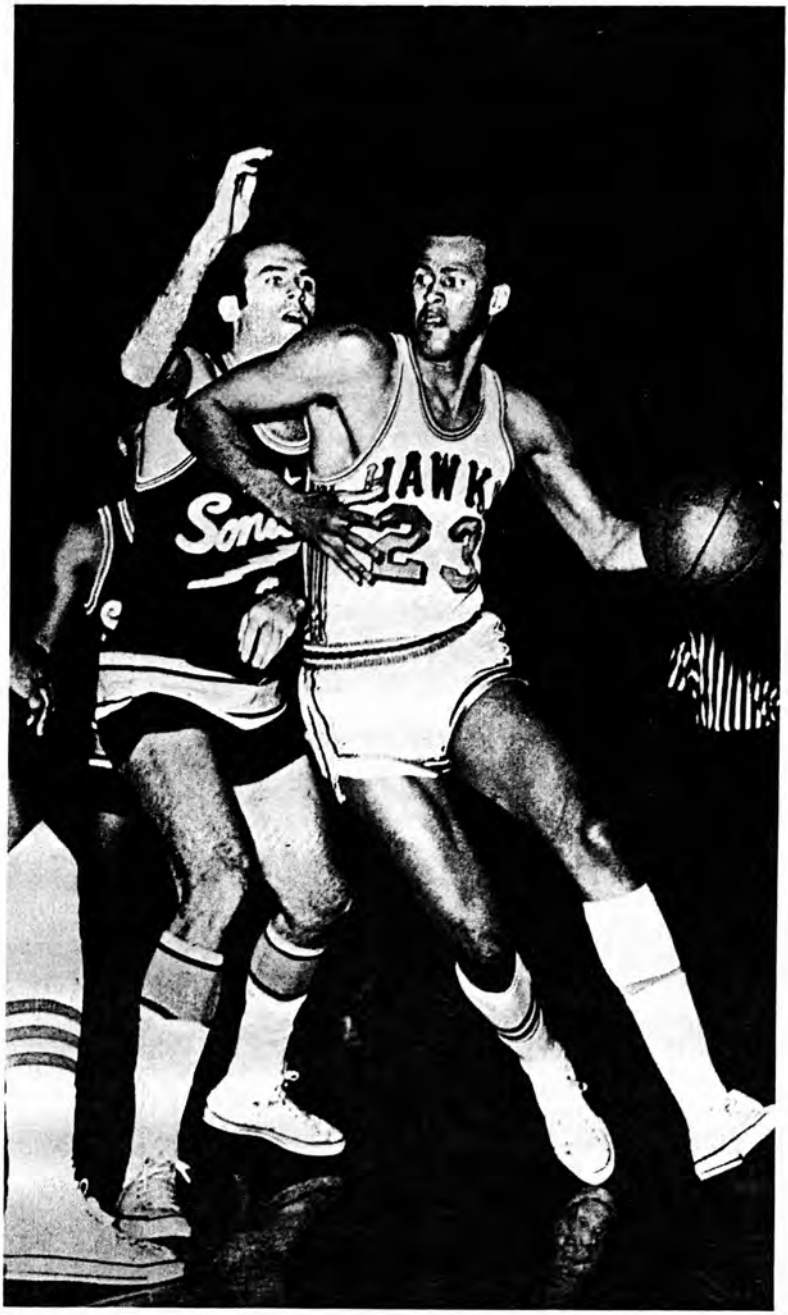
The 1969-70 Atlanta Hawks



RICHIE GUERIN
Head Coach

Richie Guerin hopes he can spend more time on the bench this year after having to fill in at guard last season when injuries struck the backcourt corps.

The dean of NBA coaches, Guerin has directed the Hawks' fortunes since late in the 1964 season. He starts his sixth campaign with the club this season. Under his guidance, the Hawks have won one division title, finished second three times and third once. His six-year record is 207 victories and 165 losses.

Two seasons ago Guerin directed the Hawks to the Western Division title with a 56-26 record. The 56 victories is a Western Division record.

Last year Guerin was pressed into duty when injuries hit Walt Hazzard, Don Ohl and Joe Caldwell. He played in 27 games, scored 151 points and averaged 5.6 points per game. The Hawks finished second in the West with a 48-34 record and lost in the division finals to Los Angeles after beating San Diego in the semifinals.

In 12 seasons as a player with the New York Knicks and Hawks, he scored 14,669 points for a fine 17.4 career mark. While with New York, he played in six All-Star games, averaging 10.5 points. He led the Knicks in scoring three times.

It was with the Knicks that Richie first jumped into pro basketball prominence. After a rookie season that saw him average just 9.7 points a game, he put together a string of six high-scoring years. His average dipped as low as 16.5 only once. His top year was 1961-62 when he tossed in 2,303 points for a 29.5 average (both Knick records), becoming the first guard in league history to top the 2,000 point plateau.

Upon his retirement from active play, Richie rated high in most categories in the NBA record book. His 12-year total of 14,669 points in 840 games was ninth on the all-time list.

Richie is a native of New York City and attended Iona College there. He now lives in Atlanta with his wife, the former Pat Keane, and they have four children, Patti Ann (14), Kerry Ann (9), Richie (7), and Cathy Ann (6).

GENE TORMOHLEN

Assistant Coach

Starting his second year as assistant coach and head scout, Gene retired from active play prior to last season when he was drafted by Phoenix in the expansion pool.

Tormohlen played five years in the National Basketball Association, all with the Hawks, and earned the reputation as one of the roughest and toughest rebounders in the league. It was this style of play that earned him the nickname "Bumper."

"The Bumper" came to the Hawks in 1962 from the old American Basketball League where he was an all-star center for Kansas City and a teammate of Bill Bridges . . . Prior to joining Kansas City, he played for Cleveland in the Industrial League where he teamed with ex-Hawk John Barnhill and Dick Barnett to win the national AAU title in 1961.

Tormohlen was originally drafted No. 1 by Syracuse after his college days at Tennessee . . . The Hawks paid the Nats $20,000 to acquire Gene when the ABL folded . . . He was used mainly as a backup man to Zelmo Beaty . . . Best year was 1966-67 when he averaged 9.5 points and 7.5 rebounds during 29 games that Beaty was sidelined with a knee injury . . . He sparked the club to a second place finish in the Western Division.

During the off-season, Gene was associate director of the Hawks Clinic program, a program that enabled over 100,000 Georgia youngsters to see first hand the fundamentals of basketball.

Gene is married to the former Julie Stafford and they live in Atlanta with their daughter, Gina, age 1½.

AGE: 21
HEIGHT: 6-5
WEIGHT: 205
Born in Boston, Mass., April 25, 1948
Residence: New York City
College: Manhattan from 1965 to 1969

A real surprise on the Hawks roster . . . Drafted 20th and last in the college draft after being recommended by his coach, Jack Powers, a long-time friend of Coach Richie Guerin.

Those who have seen Grady compare him with Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia in his style of play . . . Very aggressive, always around the ball and hustling. Good offensive rebounder and a lefty . . . Quick shooter.

Overlooked in the college draft after missing several games in his senior season . . . Captain of the Manhattan team and most valuable player . . . Once grabbed 35 rebounds in sophomore season and was in top 10 in nation in free throw shooting as junior with .760 mark . . . Was Most Valuable Player in Don Bosco Tournament, scoring 48 points in final game against competition that included several pros, including New York Nets team of ABA.

BILL BRIDGES

AGE: 30
HEIGHT: 6-6
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Hobbs, New Mexico, April 4, 1939
Residence: Atlanta, Ga.
College: University of Kansas, 1957 to 1961

If ever there was a bargain in sports, Bill Bridges is it. One of the top scorers in the old American Basketball League, Bridges was acquired in 1962 when the ABL folded. The Hawks traded Al Ferrari and Shellie Millon to the Chicago Zephyrs for the draft rights to Bridges. They are no longer in basketball . . . Bridges is an NBA superstar.

One of the most feared rebounders in the league, Bridges had his third straight 1,000-plus boards last year with 1,132, second best in his career. His 1,190 in 1966-67 is tops.

Bridges set a career high in assists last year with 298 and for the first time in the last four seasons committed less than 300 personal fouls. His 11.8 scoring average was fifth best on the team.

Bridges' point career high came two years ago when he scored 37 against Detroit. His top rebounding night also came two years ago, 27.

At the University of Kansas, Bridges was an All-Big Eight selection three times . . . Conference MVP in 1961 . . . Set KU record in conference rebounding with 580 in senior year and career total of 2,081 is school mark . . . Won Big Eight rebound crown three times . . . Ranks fifth in scoring with 1,082 points behind Wilt Chamberlain, Charles Black, Clyde Lovellette and Wayne Hightower—all NBA performers at one time.

Bill was outstanding athlete in high school (Hobbs, New Mexico), making the all-state team in basketball three years and football once . . . In first year in ABL, he had a mark of 1,697 points, 1,059 rebounds, a .458 field goal mark and a .702 free throw percentage and was that league's MVP in 1961.

Bridges worked during the off-season for Cousins Properties . . . A fine golfer, Bill has a four handicap . . . Married to the former Barbara Gaitor and has a son, Bill, Jr., two daughters, Carla and Marla.

JOE CALDWELL

AGE: 27
HEIGHT: 6-5
WEIGHT: 210
Born in Texas City, Tex., Nov. 1, 1941
Residence: Tempe, Arizona
College: Arizona State University, 1960-1964

An exciting player who thrilled Hawks fans with his breakaway dunk shots and many steals, Jumpin' Joe is expected to see extensive duty at forward this season after splitting playing time between guard and forward last season . . . He set a single season Hawks record for field goal percentage with a mark of .507 on 561 goals in 1,106 attempts . . . He averaged 15.8 points per game.

Caldwell is starting his fifth year with the Hawks. He was acquired from Detroit in 1965 in exchange for John Barnhill. He promptly set the tempo that was to carry the Hawks through one of their most exciting seasons.

In first game with Hawks, Joe scored 21 points in victory over Philadelphia. Two nights later scored winning basket in last 10 seconds to beat Boston, 100-98. Led Hawks in playoffs with 18.9 average that year and hit 33 in initial playoff game against Baltimore on the Bullets' home court.

Joe set individual highs in five categories last season: field goals made, 15; field goals attempted, 25; free throws attempted, 13; assists, 11 and points 32 . . . His 34 points against Los Angeles in the playoffs is also a career high.

He is the ninth of 11 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Caldwell. Attended Fremont High School in Los Angeles . . . All-City, All-State and All-America in basketball . . . Jumped 6-5½ in track and asked to try out for Olympic team, but turned it down for basketball.

At Arizona State, Caldwell scored 1,518 points and was an All-America . . . He helped the U. S. to the Olympic basketball gold medal in the 1964 games . . . Drafted No. 1 by Detroit, Caldwell played in 66 games and averaged 10.7 points in a substitute role.

Joe got his nickname from jumping over a convertible on the Arizona State campus . . . He is married to the former Sharon Allen and they have two daughters, Tiffany, 6, and Tracey Lenoir, 2.

JIMMY DAVIS

AGE: 27
HEIGHT: 6-9½
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Muncie, Indiana, Dec. 18, 1941
Residence: Atlanta, Ga.
College: University of Colorado, 1960-1964

Jimmy Davis finally got his chance last year to prove he belonged in the National Basketball Association. When Zelmo Beaty went out with a leg injury, Davis stepped in and for 10 games did yeoman work . . . In that span, Davis scored 172 points.

His single game high as a pro came Feb. 17 when he scored 29 points against Milwaukee . . . His rebounding high is 18 against San Diego, also coming last year. Davis played in 78 games, averaged 8.8 points and grabbed 529 rebounds.

Jimmy took over as No. 1 center this year after Zelmo Beaty departed Hawks' fold. It's the chance Davis has been seeking since he entered the NBA three years ago.

Road to the NBA has not been an easy one for Davis. After being drafted by Detroit in fourth round in 1964, the Pistons cut him after three days in camp . . . Davis reported to Sunbury of the Eastern League and toiled there for two years before making Hawks team.

It was in Eastern League that Jimmy developed his rugged style of play . . . Averaged 26 points per game in Eastern League and was named to the all-star team one year.

At Colorado, Davis played first string center for three years . . . All-Big Eight two years, averaging 18 points and 15 rebounds . . . Prepped at Muncie Central High . . . Led team to the finals of the state championship three times . . . Davis was named to the Indiana All-State team in his junior and senior years, as were two of his teammates, former Boston Celtics Ron Bonham and ex-University of Miami player John Dampier. A fourth Muncie starter, Jim Nettles, now is a defensive halfback for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

WALT HAZZARD

AGE: 27
HEIGHT: 6-3
WEIGHT: 190
Born in Philadelphia, Pa., April 15, 1942
College: UCLA, 1960-1964

Walt is starting his second full season with the Hawks and his fifth in the league . . . played under a handicap last season since he came to Atlanta just three days before the season opened in trade with Seattle for Lennie Wilkens.

Primarily a shooter throughout his NBA career, Walt had to adapt to the Hawks' system as a playmaker . . . Despite missing all preseason work with Atlanta, Hazzard showed signs in the season of becoming one of the best backliners in the NBA.

Walt led Hawks in assists with 474 last season and tied Wilkens' single game assist mark with 19 against Cincinnati last March 6 . . . His 12 assists in first half of that game is Hawks' record . . . Amazed fans with his great passing ability and off-balance shots while driving the lane.

Hazzard was drafted No. 1 by Los Angeles after fabulous career at UCLA . . . Averaged 4.2, 13.7 and 9.3 in three seasons with Lakers . . . Picked by Seattle in expansion draft, Hazzard had finest season with Sonics in 1967-68 . . . Scored 1,894 points for 23.9 average and 493 assists . . . Selected to All-Star team in 1968 and scored nine points.

With Hawks last year, Hazzard averaged 11.2 points per game . . . Hit 33 points in playoff game against Los Angeles . . . Career high is 45 points while at Seattle . . . Suffered broken jaw in off-season game in Philadelphia.

A legend at UCLA, Walt led Bruins to 71-18 mark in three varsity seasons . . . Team won NCAA championship in 30-0 senior season . . . All-America two years . . . Scored 1,371 points in college career, breaking Willie Nauls' school record of 1,225 . . . Football cheerleader and member of numerous honor societies . . . Played for U. S. Olympic team in 1964.

Walt had own television show in Seattle and wants a career in that field . . . Married to the former Patricia Shepherd and they have one son, Walter III (Scooter, 5) and makes home in Atlanta . . . Wife Pat is co-author of a basketball book designed to orient women to the game—called Basketball for Dolls.

LOU HUDSON

AGE: 25
HEIGHT: 6-5
WEIGHT: 220
Born in Greensboro, N. C., July 11, 1944
College: University of Minnesota, 1962-1966

This could be the year that Lou Hudson joins the select group of "superstars" in the NBA. Many contend he's already there.

Hudson led the Hawks in scoring last year with 1,770 points and a 21.9 average, 15th best in the league, and opened some eyes as to his defensive prowess when he held Los Angeles' Jerry West far below his average in the Western Division playoffs.

Coach Richie Guerin plans to move Hudson to guard in preseason work to take full advantage of his outside shooting ability. Lou played some at guard last season and proved he could handle the position.

Lou set new career highs in every category last year as he led the Hawks to a 58-34 record, second best in the club's history. He hit 716 of 1,455 field goal attempts for a .492 average. He averaged 22 points in the playoffs, also a team high.

Hudson was the first draft choice of the Hawks and the fourth in the NBA after going almost unnoticed in his senior year at the University of Minnesota because of playing with a broken right wrist . . . All-Big 10 for three straight years, Hudson earned All-America honors on several teams as a junior . . . Missed seven games after breaking wrist, then played 13 games with cast and still averaged 19.8 points a game . . . Missed setting an all-time Minnesota scoring mark by only six points . . . Set single-season individual high as junior with 588 points for 23.3 mark . . . First Minnesota player in modern era to lead Big 10 in field goals, 139 as junior.

Lou barely missed Rookie of the Year honors in 1966-67 when he led Hawks with 18.4 average. He fell off the next year when he missed half the season due to military obligation.

Hudson's career high came against Baltimore last year with 42 points . . . Outstanding high school quarterback and was drafted by Dallas of NFL. Lou is single . . . worked with Hawks in their clinic program in off-season.

DON OHL

AGE: 33
HEIGHT: 6-3
WEIGHT: 190
Born in Murphysboro, Illinois, April 18, 1936
Residence: Murphysboro, Ill.
College: University of Illinois, 1954-1958

Ohl will be starting his 10th year in pro basketball and third with the Hawks... Came to the Hawks from Baltimore in 1967 in exchange for rookie forward Tom Workman and the Hawks' No. 2 draft choice in 1968 . . . A fine outcourt shooter, Don averaged 12.1 last year and contributed heavily to Atlanta's second place finish in the Western Division.

This will be Don's 10th season in the NBA and he has scored 10,908 points for a career average of 16.5 . . . He was originally drafted by Detroit after an outstanding career at Illinois, but decided to play AAU ball with Peoria. As an AAU performer, he led Peoria to the national title in 1960 and was named an AAU All-American each of his two years in the league . . . After four years with Detroit, Ohl was traded to Baltimore where he hit his career high of 43 points on Christmas Day, 1966, against Detroit.

Ohl was hampered last year by leg trouble, but still appeared in 76 games . . . During his career, Don has appeared in five all-star games and 47 playoff games in which he averaged 16.9 points per game. He is 26th among the all-time NBA scorers and 13th among active players.

During the off-season, Ohl operates an office supply company in his hometown of Edwardsville, Ill. . . . He is married to the former Judy Webber and they have three children—Donald, Jr., Pamela Lee and Tracey Lynn.

DAVE NEWMARK

AGE: 23
HEIGHT: 7-0
WEIGHT: 260
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1946
Residence: New York City
College: Columbia from 1965 to 1968

Dave Newmark joined the Hawks just three days before the season opener, coming in a trade with Cincinnati after he was acquired by the Royals from Chicago.

Had the distinction of playing on a team (Chicago) with another seven-footer, Tom Boerwinkle . . . Will be used with Atlanta as backup center to Jimmy Davis . . . Considered good shooter for big man and should give Hawks added board strength . . . extremely likeable person.

At Columbia University, Newmark averaged 17.8 points per game in his career . . . Was Chicago's No. 3 draft choice . . . Only seven-foot player in Hawks' history . . . With Bulls in 1968-69, played in 81 games, averaged 13 minutes a game, grabbed 347 rebounds and scored 456 points for 5.6 average . . . Feels he can do better with Hawks in all categories.

Injury-prone in college, but has learned to give and take the poundings of big men in pro basketball . . . During off season, Newmark on occasions has been an understudy in some off-Broadway stage productions and would like to pursue that career following playing days . . . Dave is married to the former Kathy Freitas of Tewksbury, Mass.

GARY GREGOR

AGE: 24
HEIGHT: 6-7
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 13, 1945
Residence: Atlanta, Ga.
College: University of South Carolina, 1964-1969

Joins Hawks after one year with Phoenix Suns where he was named to the NBA All-Rookie team . . . Was teammate of Hawks' Skip Harlicka at South Carolina. Atlanta traded Paul Silas to Suns for Gregor.

In rookie season in NBA, Gregor made a big splash, scoring 785 points for expansion team, averaged 9.8 points per game . . . Best night came against San Diego when he scored 28 points . . . Scored 26 against Hawks in one game . . . Hit 400 of 963 field goal attempts for .415 mark.

It is Coach Richie Guerin's belief that Gregor will add all-important scoring to forward position. Shoots well enough to go outside and rugged enough to take the ball inside with the biggest of men. Hauled down 711 rebounds last year, which would have ranked third on Hawks' team . . . Good passer as shown by his 101 assists.

At South Carolina, Gregor averaged 15.6 for three years and 14 rebounds . . . Named to All-ACC team in senior season . . . No. 1 draft choice of Suns and played in 80 of club's 82 games.

Gary wound up his college education this summer, getting his degree in business administration . . . Younger brother Mac plays for West Virginia Tech . . . Gary likes softball and golf and enjoys listening to country and western music . . . Married and the father of two children . . . He and his wife Judy and family will make their home in Atlanta.

PROSPECTUS:

The surprise of the NBA when they went from last place to first place in the East, Baltimore should have stiff competition in their bid to repeat, even though club should be stronger. Wes Unseld, (2nd in NBA in rebounds); won Rookie of Year and MVP awards last year. He'll hold down post backed by Leroy Ellis (7.2) and swingman Ray Scott (11.8); All-Star Earl Monroe (25.8 for second best scoring mark) and Kevin Loughery (22.6) head up backcourt with vets Barry Orms and John Barnhill in reserve. Top rookies are guards Mike Davis (Virginia Union) and Fred Carter (Mt. St. Mary's). Gus Johnson (17.9) and Jack Marin (15.9) are the top cornermen with Scott, Ed Manning (4.7), Bob Quick (3.1) and Tom Workman (2.5) in reserve.

PROSPECTUS:

Bill Russell seems adamant about retiring which will handicap the Celtics two-fold. New coach is former Celt ace, Tom Heinsohn, who may change Boston's style of attack. Replacement for Russell could be Henry Finkel (3.7 at San Diego last year) who can score if given playing time. Trade for a big man seems a certainty. Top rookie is Kansas Olympic star, Jo Jo White, unavailable until November. Back from last year are All-Star John Havlicek (21.6); Bailey Howell (19.7); Tom Sanders (11.2); Don Nelson (11.6); Jim Barnes (5.2) and Rich Johnson (2.2) among the big men and Larry Siegfried (14.2); Emmette Bryant (5.7) and Don Chaney (4.0) among the guards. Celtics finished fourth last year but won 11th world crown in 13 years. Without Russell. . . ? ? ? ?.

PROSPECTUS:

Dick Motta starts his second year as head coach, optimistic about his club's chances. They'll go with youth. Bulls traded vets Boozer and Washington and acquired sophomore pros, Bob Kauffman and Shaler Halimon plus vet Chet Walker in deals with Seattle and Philly. Second year postman, Tom Boerwinkle could be one of premier pivots in league in another year while Walt Wesley is adequate back-up. All-Star Jerry Sloan (16.8) and Clem Haskins (17.2) are a solid backcourt tandem with vets Bob Weiss (6.6), Loy Peterson (2.8). Rookie John Baum (Temple) should be the third cornerman with another first-year forward—Ken Spain—able to spell at center. Defense aided the Bulls last year—and they've improved offensively for this season.

PROSPECTUS:

Legendary Bob Cousy takes over as coach—which means the Royals will be a running team—even more. Top pick Herm Gilliam (Purdue) will help in the back as will third choice, 6-11 Luther Rackely. Tom Van Arsdale (19.4) will move back to forward joining vets Fred Hetzel (14.4); Al Tucker (10.5) and Jerry Lucas (18.3)—the latter still one of the game's premier rebounders. Connie Dierking (16.3) gives Cousy adequate pivot play. Oscar Robertson (24.7) still does everything on the backline although their only vet Adrian Smith (9.6) can give support if Van Arsdale switches. Bill Dinwiddie, Pat Frink and Fred Foster saw limited service last year. Cousy has some "ifs" but in the topsy-turvy East race, the Royals will have something to say.

PROSPECTUS:

New coach, Butch Van Breda Kolff (ex-Laker boss) should instill new spirit in a Piston club that, on paper, has considerable talent. Their guard alignment is the best in the league—Dave Bing (23.4); Eddie Miles (13.3); Butch Komives (11.4) and Jimmy Walker (11.7). Vet Walt Bellamy (17.4) has the talent but after nine years, has never showed the spirit. Sophomore Otto Moore (7.7) backs up Bellamy and can play forward but tailed off at the end of last year. Happy Hairston (18.1) and either McCoy McLemore (9.0) or Terry Dischinger (8.8) will start at forwards with only Hairston a top cornerman. Dischinger returned from two-years of military duty last year and was only partially effective. Vets Dave Gambee and Sonny Dove are other forwards with rookie Steve Mix (Toledo) the only first-year man rated a chance to make squad. Van Breda Kolff is a fireball who likes the underdog role—which sums up the Pistons picture.

PROSPECTUS:

New coach, Joe Mullaney, brings a 15-year 293-99 record into the pros from Providence College. He is a highly respected mentor whom the pros have courted for many years. The Lakers added three fine rookies in guards Dick Garrett (SIU) and Willie McCarter (Drake) and forward Rich Roberson (Cincinnati). Wilt Chamberlain (20.5 and tops in rebounding and field goal percentage) will handle the post while two other all-stars, Elgin Baylor (24.8) and Jerry West (25.9) comprise with Wilt the best one-two-three punch in the league. Guards John Egan (8.5) and Keith Erickson (8.4) are adequate while Mel Counts (12.4) helps out at forward and center. Sophomore Bill Hewitt (7.2) has tremendous promise. They should be favored to repeat—but it should be a three or four team Western race.

PROSPECTUS:

The Bucks won 27 games last year as an expansion team which surprised most observers. Lew Alcindor could reshape the entire franchise—possibly this year. Flynn Robinson (20.2) and Jon McGlocklin (19.6) give the Bucks firepower in the back while sophomore Don Smith (11.0) in Bucks livery, takes care of one corner slot. Rookie Bob Graecen (Rutgers) will get a shot at the other slot although vet Len Chappell (14.6) the probable starter. Vet Guy Rodgers has enough left to handle the fast break for another year and Greg Smith (8.1) had a fine rookie season. Dick Cunningham (6-10) is a good rebounder while 7-0 Rich Neimann is adequate back of Alcindor or Cunningham. The East is a tough division but the future is bright for the Bucks.

PROSPECTUS:

The team to beat in the East—on the basis of last year's strong finish. Forward Dave Stallworth returns after two years on the sidelines to bulwark a strong front line. Center Willis Reed (21.1) is one of the best four or five postmen with Nate Bowman (2.9) an adequate fill-in. Dave DeBusschere (16.3), Cazzie Russell (18.3) and Bill Bradley (12.4) are the cornermen of note while Walt Frazier (17.5 and the best young guard in the NBA) and ageless Dick Barnett (17.6) are the backline starts. Rookie John Warren (St. John(s) and soph Mike Riordan (2.3) are the backline reserves although Bradley and Russell can move back. Second-year men Don May and Bill Hoskett who saw little action last season return for spot play. Coach Red Holzman is a old hand at pressure play and he has done a fine job in revitalizing the Knicks. Barring injuries, an old Knick bugaboo, New York could have their first title.

PROSPECTUS:

General Manager Jack Ramsey returns in the dual role of coach (and he earned considerable accolades for a fine job last year). The return to form of Luke Jackson (14.4 in only 25 games before being injured) is a key to the 76ers success. Vet Darrall Imhoff (9.2) did an able job filling in for big Luke while 6-8 George Wilson (9.2) is still around to help at a forward-center reserve post. In the back, All-Star Hal Greer (23.1), Wally Jones (13.5) and Archie Clark (13.2) give the 76ers a fine guard trio with swingman Matt Guokas (3.3) filling in. They added 6-7 Jim Washington (14.0) from Chicago to help off the boards at a corner where Billy Cunningham (24.8)—the team scoring leader—is a standout. Bud Odgen (Santa Clara) and Dave Scholz (Illinois) could help at the forwards. The 76ers were hurt in the playoffs through injuries to Cunningham and Jackson. They could take the East flag if the team stays healthy.

PROSPECTUS:

ABA super-star Connie Hawkins makes up for the loss of Lew Alcindor to Milwaukee and the Suns (who won only 16 games last year) can move up quite a few spots in the West. Hawkins will join ex-Hawks star, Paul Silas, as the top forwards with Dick Van Arsdale (21.0) slated to move to the back court. No. 1 pick, Neal Walk (Florida) will vie with vet Jim Fox (11.1) for the center spot although Hawkins can handle that post too, if necessary. Gail Goodrich (23.8) can score and with Van Arsdale provides a good one-two punch in the back. Vets Dick Snyder (12.1), Stan McKenzie (9.3) and Bob Warlick (7.8) are adequate backline fill-ins. High-scoring Jerry Chambers comes out of service eager for a shot at forward spot while rookies Lamar Green and Gene Williams are both rugged rebounders. Also back are vet forwards Neil Johnson and Dave Lattin but one or both may go. The Suns are much improved and they could double last year's won-lost mark.

PROSPECTUS:

Elvin Hayes carried the Rockets to 22 more wins last year then in their expansion season (68-69) enroute to the league scoring crown. He'll have more help this year from rookie flashes Bob Smith (Tulsa) and Bernie Williams (LaSalle) who could earn starting spots at corner and guard. Returning are all-star Don Kojis (22.5); John Block (15.3); Toby Kimball (7.8) and Pat Riley (8.8) at forwards while Kimball backs up Hayes at center. Jim Barnett (14.6); Stuart Lantz (7.8) and Rick Adelman (6.3) are young guards of considerable promise. John Trapp (6-7) and Harry Barnes (6-4) saw little service last year but both show promise. Vet NBA coach, Jack McMahon, did his usual fine job last year in leading the Rockets to a playoff berth in only their second year and the Diego club should be tougher. Their rookies and second-yearmen must come through, however, if the Rockets are to soar.

PROSPECTUS:

The Warriors probably would have scalped everyone—if Rick Barry had returned. He agreed to switch back again but ?. With Barry at a corner with Rudy LaRusso (20.7); and 6-11 Nate Thurmond (21.5) at center, the Tribe would have had an awesome front line. Clyde Lee (10.7 and 897 rebounds) can play both up-front spots while vet Joe Ellis (12.0) can play both forward and guard. Jeff Mullins (22.8) led the club in scoring last year and he'll team with either player-coach Al Attles (7.8), Jim King (7.7) or soph Ron Williams (7.8) on the backline. The club's top pick, Bob Portman (Creighton) is a great scorer but at 6-4 may be too small for a forward spot. He can score, however. Back-up men include guard Bob Lewis (5.0); and big men Dale Schlueter, and Bill Turner. The Tribe will be tough without Barry (they won the first two playoff games from LA and led in the third before Mullins was injured).

PROSPECTUS:

All-Star guard, Len Wilkens, takes over as player-coach and he'll be his own best player. He had a 22.4 mark last year and did his usual fine all-round job. He'll have help in the backcourt from UCLA great, Lucius Allen, the club's top pick. Seattle added forwards Bob Boozer (21.7) and Barry Clemens (7.4) from Chicago to go with John Tresvant (12.5), Erwin Mueller (4.8) and Joe Kennedy (6.2). Dorie Murrey (5.6) is the back-up man to ace center, Bob Rule (24.0)—who led the Sonics in scoring and rebounding last year— his sophomore season. Backline vets include the off-injured Rod Thorn (11.5); and Art Harris (12.4) with rookie Leroy Winfield (North Texas) certain to make the team. Tom Meschery (14.0) was named assistant coach by Wilkens and he'll hold down one corner spot—probably opposite Boozer. Seattle finished sixth in the West last year—and they figure to have improved. Just how much will depend on Allen and Boozer.
